Move over, badger hair—a new brush in town has all the buzz

The appeal of a shaving brush lies not only in the lather it delivers, but in the bristles themselves: They lift up stubble so you can get a closer shave. Now imagine that same brush with power. Conceived as an electric face scrubber, the Clarisonic oscillates as it spreads on cream, and this motion also pushes up the scruff to seriously prep your beard. We took it for a spin, and while the price surprised us, so did the results. Our skin was ultrasoft and nick-free, leaving us to wonder: Why didn't anyone think of this before?
